1	EELV, France	8-10	add and rephrase	EGP work in 2016 should focus on two tasks: making Green answers to the pertinent challenges of today more visible and audible, and preparing the 2019 European Parliament elections structurally and politically.	EGP work in 2016 should focus on two tasks: the most prominent one being making Green pertinent answers to the challenges of today so that the Greens are more visible and audible, while at the same time preparing the 2019 European Parliament elections structurally and politically.	We should be mainly concerned with the state of the planet .... and we should not put on the same level facing the huge challenges and running for elections
2	EELV, France	17-18	Needs clarification	We urgently need to find common channels for discussion and reflection that allow us to 18 define common responses, prioritising on clarity and forcefulness.		The « We »'s used in the text should be more precise. Sometimes it means the Committee, sometimes the delegates, sometimes the member states
3	German Greens	21	replace	"influx of immigrants"	"increased numbers of refugees"	framing
4	EELV, France	42	replace	The 2014 Common Green Manifesto stands as our common cohesive political base for 2016 and the upcoming years.	An updated 2014 Common Green Manifesto stands as our common cohesive political base for 2016 and the upcoming years	The 2014 Common Green Manifesto needs to be updated, eg the immigrants/refugees, Brexit, Grecit questions, military interventions .....
5	EELV, France	42	add	New point	Following the COP 21 the Committee wil gather reactions from all the member states to know what the outcome of the COP has been in each country.This work should be finished by March so that there is a working group meeting on the issue during the next EGP Council.This should lead to the printing of a document and serve as an axis for the EGP Communication.	As a first political priority. It would be strange to have the EU host the COP 21 and not take advantage to capitalize on the opportunity.This should even be an axis for the campaign for the next EP elections.

11	Vihreät, Finland	117	add after	2. Emotionally connect to the EU “dream” beyond technocratic recipes and austerity	”and to answer to our vision on the future of Economic Monetarian Union.”	This is the core function of the working group.
12	EELV, France	117	replace	2. Emotionally connect to the EU “dream” beyond technocratic recipes and austerity	2. appeal to the EU “dream” beyond technocratic recipes and austerity	we are political parties and « don’t do emotions ».
13	Vihreät, Finland	120	Add as point 4:		"Connecting more intensely with the neighbouring regions that suffer from lack of security, employment and economic sustainability as well as environmental threats leading to violent conflicts, forced migration and increased refugee flows."	Europe has looked too much after its own protectionistic, artificially isolated interests in trade, agricultural policy and economic cooperation, not taking fair trade, development aid and larger scale economic cooperation with the neighbouring regions seriously. This self-centered policy has deepened the security, environmental and economic crises in the neighbouring regions, e.g. in Middle East and Northern Africa, destabilising also Europe by bringing in lots of migrants and refugees at the same moment as we also suffer from economic depression.
14	EELV, France	121	replace	The question is: how can Europe become an inspirational and emotional project for Greens and how could it contribute to answering to the nationalist and populist tendencies we see growing on the political scene?	The question is: how can Europe become an inspirational and appealing project for Greens and how could it contribute to answering the nationalist and populist tendencies we see growing on the political scene?	we are political parties and « don’t do emotions ».
