11	Groen	11	replace	Nevertheless,	Furthermore
12	Bündnis 90/Die Grünen	15	add	add after „displacement.“	We recognize that the German Kaiserreich shared responsibility for the genocide. As a close military ally of the Ottoman Empire, it knew about the massacres but decided not to intervene and even prevented related information from spreading in the public.
13	GGEP	17	add		We also acknowledge the tacit complacency as well as support that states that are now Member States of the EU have given to the Ottoman Empire and ask, where this has not yet happened, for research to clarify the role of supporting states such as Germany.
14	EELV	19-20	clarify	and moreover weakens our voice and actions against new waves of violence.	????	Who do these "our" refer to ?... it is difficult to amend not knowing who is concerned
15	GGEP	21	add		Henceforth we also command the Turkish citizens who strongly and fearlessly committed for the recognition of the Armenian genocide in their country and organise or participate to the commemorations in Istanbul, standing up to the State propaganda and censorship.

Finally, the current regime in Turkey should acknowledge that failing to acknowledge Armenian Genocide and invest in reconciliation until today gave cause to...	"should" instead of "must" acknowledge is a more diplomatic formulation..
31	Bündnis 90/Die Grünen	43-44	delete	Finally, the current regime in Turkey must acknowledge that failing to acknowledge Armenian Genocide and invest in reconciliation until today gave cause to rhetoric of violence and fear and gave legitimacy to perpetrators, raising extremism and to a large degree contributed to the recent wave of violence.	Finally, the current regime in Turkey must acknowledge that failing to acknowledge Armenian Genocide and invest in reconciliation until today gave cause to rhetoric of violence and fear and gave legitimacy to perpetrators.
29	EELV	41-44	delete	Finally, the current regime in Turkey must acknowledge that failing to acknowledge Armenian Genocide and invest in reconciliation until today gave cause to rhetoric of violence and fear and gave legitimacy to perpetrators, raising extremism and to a large degree contributed to the recent wave of violence.		There is no point in writing this paragraph which can very easily be contested. Furthermore, this same paragraph applies to all the countries that went through wars of decolonisation, or for those responsible for wars.
